

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

Your request1 message

J. Myers <joemyers@hargray.com>
To: RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 7:10 PM

I hope this is useful:

Over the past five years or more I have been steadily increasing my commitment to gold and silver stocks. Dominant among my investments has been Silver Wheaton, a stock acquired based on recommendations from both Stansberry and Casey services. Silver Wheaton has been the most rewarding stock purchased in recent years. In early 2011, I sold a significant position in SLW together with other gold/silver stocks representing gains in excess of $300,000. Currently I hold serious positions in both Silver Wheaton and Royal Gold.

Thanks,

JAY M.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

Silver Wheaton

1 message

Keith Hannan <skhannan@att.net>
To: RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 5:17 PM

1. Matt Badaili . I believe before it was called S & A resources.
2. Little labor, little risk. Royal Gold and Silver Wheaton are the single best two investments I have ever owned.
3. I have made approximately 60 to 70 thousand on both stocks. The majority on SLW. I have sold dozens of covered calls over the past 3 years.
4. I am retired. Stocks are my only means of income. Without your letters I would not make it. Many, many thanks for that.
5. If you don't buy royalties, you are missing the boat.

Keith Hannan

Alliance member

KEN H.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

My Experience with Royal Gold

1 message

gibnathan@aol.com <gibnathan@aol.com>
To: RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 6:26 PM

I originally bought 7500 shares of Royal Gold for around $46.00 per share in August, 2010 and added 2500 shares in June of this year at around $58.00 per share. In August, I sold all of my silver ETF, on which I had already pulled out my original investment, so the proceeds were pure profit. I rolled over much of that pure profit into more Royal Gold - on the theory that RGLD is a growth story regardless of where the prices of gold and silver trade. In September, I pulled out some of my investment in RGLD shares by selling 7900 shares at slightly above $80. The result is that, taking into account my net dollars invested, I own 20,000 shares of Royal Gold that cost about $100,000 and are now worth about $1.6 million. This is now a long-term investment that I am not touching. All of this, by the way, is in my IRA where RGLD is about 1/4 of the portfolio.

I also have 27500 shares of Silver Wheaton at a cost basis of about $28.00. I write options on 2500 shares of that position because the premiums are so high. But, I won't write options on any more than that because I agree with Porter and Chris Weber that silver is in a long term bull market.

Nick G.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

Royalty Companies

1 message

Rick Swayne <rswayne@reedyeng.com>
To: RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 5:45 PM

George,

I bought most of my Silver Wheaton (SLW) shares in May 2009, at $8.50 per share. I bought more in November 2009 and January 2010, at about $16.00-16.50; and some in March 2011 at $40-45 per share. Even with the most recent shares being currently at a loss, I have a net gain of over 130%, excluding the recent small dividend payments. My original purchase is up 336%, also excluding dividends. I am sorry now that I sold one-half of it at $16.32 per share (almost a double). It seemed like a good idea at the time to take some profits off the table and put it in something else (partly in Silvercorp (SVM), which hasn't done as well). I am glad I later bought back about more than one-half of what I sold. Today, I wouldn't sell it any of it for any less than twice its current price. I think the only better investment I have ever made was buying Endeavour Silver (EXK). SLW has offset a lot of losses.

I own a lot of gold and silver miners – mostly junior explorers. SLW is about 8% of my stock portfolio and 12% of my precious metals stocks, most of which are in IRAs and a 401k. It's my second largest holding (after Silver Corp (SVM)). I consider it a more conservative part of my precious metals holdings – more like a large-cap miner but with a lot more upside. I think stocks in royalty companies should be the foundation of any precious metals portfolio. (By the way, I feel the same way about MLPs in the energy portion of my stock portfolio. They work very much the same way.)

I don't remember exactly what prompted me to buy SLW, but I had previously owned Royal Gold (RGLD) and had just read a recommendation for SLW by Adam Hamilton in Zeal Intelligence. SLW is currently recommended by some of the best in the business, including Steve Sjoggerud, Adam Hamilton, Jeff Clark, and Sean Brodrick, along with a smattering of royalty businesses, like Royal Gold and Franco Nevada. I like the idea of sitting back and collecting on the revenue streams of silver producers. It just seems like lending money to a steady business with an interest rate that increases every year. Until this precious metals bull market (or fiat currency bear market) ends, I expect its value to keep increasing every year.

Rick Swayne

RALPH S.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

SLW

1 message

Jim Taylor <JTaylor@memc.com>

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 4:31 PM

To: "RoyaltyFeedback@Gmail.com" <RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com>

Yes, I have owned Silver Wheaton in the past and currently own Royal Gold, Franco Nevada, and Silver Wheaton. I first bought SLW after reading about it in Advanced Income and the Oil Report. I bought it twice in 08 and sold 1/11 for a 392% profit. This is one if not the best investment I've made but these stocks can also be volatile so you must get in when the prices are beaten down.

MEMC Confidentiality Statement: The contents of this message, together with any attachments, are intended only for the use of the individual or entity to which they are addressed and may contain information that is legally privileged and confidential. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, or copying of this message, or any attachment, is strictly prohibited. If you have received this message in error, please notify the original sender immediately by telephone or by return E-mail and delete this message, along with any attachments, from your computer.

No Contract: Regardless of content, this email shall not operate to bind MEMC to any purchase order or contract unless pursuant to a written agreement signed by MEMC expressly permitting the use of email for such purpose.

JOHN T.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

Who Me?

1 message

Swamp Rat <hannaco@a1isp.net>

Tue, Nov 8, 2011 at 1:09 AM

Reply-To: hannaco@a1isp.net

To: RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com

1. How did you first learn about precious metals royalty companies?

Darned if I know. It was a long time ago.

2. Why did you choose to invest in a royalty company over more traditional companies (miners/explorers/producers)? Do you feel like it was a good decision?

I have always liked a business that just collected checks and put money into the bank. Nothing like letting someone else do the work, and you get the cash regardless of the cost of production.

3. What have your overall percentage returns been like? (Percentage gains only. Please be as specific as possible).

The outstanding one is Silver Wheaton at 460 percent. Then there are those that have been less. Impact Silver is only up 22 percent. A young company I hope to say that I got in when it was still small. Royal Gold is only up 85 percent so far. I got in when it was well along.

4. What kind of impact has this investment had on your retirement goals?

It has off set some of the other dumb choices made over the years. In the next few years, the cost of metal should go up, making the income for the companies to increase. I look forward to a few extra bucks in the account at retirement time.

5. What would you say to someone who has never considered this kind of investment before?

Read, and investigate before you buy. If you do not mind waiting for a while, the returns should be nice. If your idea of a long term investment is forty-five days, do not bother. Over the next few years with the fall of the dollar, the returns of these stocks should be gratifying.

Regards,
Larry

Lenny H.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

Royalty investment experience

1 message

Harrison Duke <thd@thdukelaw.com>

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 5:15 PM

To: "RoyaltyFeedback@Gmail.com" <RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com>

Greetings!

I learned about Royalty investments from Dan Ferris. My returns have been 180% per annum thus far. I didn't invest in Royalties in lieu of metals, but did so in addition to my metal positions. Thus far, they have out paced metals, both bullion and etf's.

Harrison Duke, Private Wealth Alliance Member

Henry D.

S&A Feedback <royaltyfeedback@gmail.com>

feedback for Gold

1 message

Billy t <billyt@amoorecadillac.com>

Mon, Nov 7, 2011 at 5:53 PM

To: "RoyaltyFeedback@Gmail.com" <RoyaltyFeedback@gmail.com>

1. How did you first learn about precious metals royalty companies?- First time was from your Newsletter. After reading a bit more I spent the money on John Doody's newsletter. Worth every penny! He is one analytical and thorough man!

2. Why did you choose to invest in a royalty company over more traditional companies (miners/explorers/producers)? Do you feel like it was a good decision? - I am a VERY small investor. After reading your newsletters, it seemed to offer the most possible return with the safest risk. I mean based on the current value of Gold, all these guys do is cash checks! (Royalty Companies) Based on Mr. Doody's track record, it was a no brainer.

3. What have your overall percentage returns been like? (Percentage gains only. Please be as specific as possible). I currently own Royal Gold, Silver Wheaton, European Goldfields, and Yamana. I have owned all 4 for about 7 months now. I am up roughly 37% YTD. Based on his future values, im hoping to double or triple my investment.

4. What kind of impact has this investment had on your retirement goals? Too early to say. I'm 33, and have a long way to go. However, I did inquire about the possibility of changing my company 401k to precious metals but that was not something offered. This has obviously opened my eyes and I am paying closer attention to my Goals. It has helped get my fiancée involved a lot more as well. After giving her the reader's digest version, she is investing and constantly monitoring it...which is so good to see! She is up about 10% Better than my stupid 401K im getting hammered in...

5. What would you say to someone who has never considered this kind of investment before? - you're an idiot for not adding it to your portfolio. Actually, that might be bit harsh. Everybody should be looking at the mining companies and Royalty Companies. For a dumb investor like me, its been proven to be a big winner. Thanks again for all that you do. The education has been better than anything I have ever read! Keep up the good work!

Billy Theodorakos

DET.

General Sales Manager|Moore Family of Dealerships9177 West Broad StRichmond Virginia, 23294804-346-4000(Phone)804-965-0858(Fax)804-935-2620(Direct)